

Sirs: I want to make my opinion known regarding satellite radio. First, I am a 47 year old serving 25 years as a professional in the law enforcement field (currently a Detective Sergeant in the City of Erie, Pa. Criminal Investigation Division). I hold a Master's Degree from Mercyhurst College. I believe satellite radio to be an extremely important venue for our household, not only for enjoyment of it's music, comedy, and other entertainment formats, but also for it's ability to give relatively localized traffic and weather updates. We visit family and friends on a wide geographic scale, and often vacation some distance from our home on the Lake Erie shore in Pennsylvania. We depend on satellite radio during our trips. We may or may not be able to find a helpful local channel in our travels, but satellite radio seldom fails to assist us. Please do not allow the "old style" broadcasters to sway your opinion regarding satellite radio, and do not restrict satellite radio in what they are offering those of us fortunate enough to enjoy it. Thank you for your time. Clark Peters.
